Look Who's New in Continuing Education . . .

Ed Roberts joined the Allied Health program at CCBC Essex on Monday, December 1. He had previously served as Business-Community Relations Manager with the Woodstock Job Corps Center and as a member of the adjunct faculty in the Health Science Department at Towson University.

Ed's background in health care management includes service in administrative operations and marketing/business development. Before returning to Baltimore in 2003 for family considerations, Ed served as Director of Geriatric Services with Lehigh Valley Hospital and Health Network in Allentown (PA). In that role, he lead a team to develop a regional Center for Healthy Aging, an effort that enabled the health system to be named as a Top 50 provider of geriatric medical services by US News and World Report. He also served as practice manager of the health system's Geriatric Medical Practice.

Ed is a native of Baltimore and makes his home in the southwest section of Baltimore City. He is a graduate of the University of Maryland - College Park with a degree in Journalism/Public Relations and Saint Joseph's University in Philadelphia with a master's degree in Health Administration. He also served as a member of the adjunct faculty at DeSales University near Allentown.

Memorandum:

Building on the tremendous success of last year's 50th Anniversary gala, the Community College of Baltimore County this year premieres its Green Carpet Gala. Set for Saturday, April 18, 2009 at Martin's West, the Green Carpet Gala is poised to become CCBC's signature fundraising event. The results of last year's event were extraordinary. Over 500 guests attended, including many members of our CCBC family; we netted $137,000 for scholarships; and we had a fabulous time.

The theme of this year's Green Carpet Gala is "Growing our future: Preserving our legacy." In launching our next fifty years, we intend to celebrate CCBC's marvelous ability to meet the changing needs of students, employers and educational partners within a changing landscape. Proceeds from this event will support scholarships for students as well as academic programs.

But no event that celebrates the college is possible without inclusion of members of our college community. Last year we provided an opportunity for CCBC employees to purchase tickets to this event at a reduced price, and over 150 faculty and staff took advantage of the initiative. We are repeating that opportunity this year.

While the ticket price for the Gala is $150, we are happy to make tickets available to employees and adjunct faculty for $100 each. (We have a limited supply of reduced priced tickets, so don't delay.) For additional information contact Michelle Connelly at 443-840-3270

Taking learning to a new level at the Winter Adjunct Conference

Neither ice nor traffic nor gloom of night could keep people away from the Winter Adjunct Conference, January 28th. Over 250 people showed up at the Essex campus to socialize, exchange information and acknowledge faculty reaching milestones in their careers.

The evening began with a wonderful, warm dinner provided by the Sodexo caterers on the Essex campus. Then President Sandra Kurtinitis and Mark McColloch, Vice President of Instruction, thanked the faculty for their service and spoke about the future of CCBC.

Faculty who has reached their 5,10,15,20,25,30 + years of service were acknowledged and presented with certificates. Awards of those in attendance will follow in the mail. President Kurtinitis took the time be photographed with the honorees and congratulate them on their achievements.

After the ceremony, the attendees had the options of participating in workshops or GIFTS. The evening finished up with department meetings and an orientation for new CEED faculty.
